DUG HIMSELF A GRAVE.

Attempted Suicide of a Father at His Home.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Oct. 29.—Dr. C. C. Crosby, a well-known druggist of Pleasantville, attempted suicide to-day in the cemetery at Chappoqua, where lies the bodies of his two children. He was found unconscious stretched across their graves.

Dr. Crosby was about 40 years old and his domestic life had been most happy until the death of his children, a year ago. His grief settled into a melancholy which seemed daily to grow deeper. Latterly he has exhibited signs of insanity and his friends kept him in sight as much as possible. Every one who knew him understood that grief on account of his bereavement was destroying his reason. Sometimes when the names of his dead children were mentioned he became hysterical and of late his family has studiously avoided every subject of conversation that would call them to mind.

This afternoon he was missed from his home. He was traced to a livery stable, where he had hired a carriage, and thence to the cemetery at Chappaqua. It was his custom to make frequent visits to his children's graves, and of this those who were looking for him were well aware. But they were not prepared for the pathetic spectacle that met their gaze when they arrived there.

Dr. Crosby had dug and used the carriage entering the cemetery. He was such a familiar figure there that the keeper paid little attention to him. What the searchers saw when they arrived made his motive appear as clear as daylight. He came to dig himself a grave beside those of his children and have them near him. A gravedigger's spade was close at hand and he struck it into the sod beside one of the little graves. He threw up the earth until he was a foot deep enough to hold his body. Then he took from his pocket a vial of laudanum, drank the contents and lay himself down in the grave which he had dug.

This was what his friends saw when they arrived on the scene. He was unconscious, though the effect of the drug had caused nausea and prevented speedy death. He was taken home, where he lies at the point of death, and the doctor said that he was not know that he was removed from the grave he had dug for himself beside those of his child ren.

THE CAT AGAIN.

Three Deaths in a Family by Black Diphtheria—Smitten by a Stray Cat.

DODGEVILLE, Wis., Oct. 29.—The family of Robert Paul at Middleton, has been afflicted with diphtheria. Four weeks ago a stray cat went to the house and one of the children played with it, although it was noticed at the time that it discharged at the nose and mouth. Nothing was thought of it till soon afterwards when the little children began to sicken with black diphtheria which the doctor said had had caught from the cat. The boy died. Then a second and two of the children died. The father, mother and daughter were also stricken down, but recovered. All the only remaining son, and the support of his parents, cared for them all through their sickness holding one of the boys when dying and preparing them for burial. When the others were recovering he was taken sick and died.

A MADMAN RUNS AMUCK.

Fatally Wounds Two Men With an Axe and is Shot to Pieces by Villagers.

LACOLLE, Que., Oct. 29.—Last week a man by the name of Leblanche, who was working for Joseph Gregoire in the village, threatened to stoned and kill Gregoire and his family. Monday he was arrested, when it was discovered that Leblanche had lately made his escape from a Michigan insane asylum. The officials have been keeping him confined in Joseph Largesse's house, but without handcuffs, and after breakfast this morning he took out of Largesse's house and seizing an axe struck Largesse, cutting him on the head in a most frightful manner. Bailiff E. D. Larsen started in pursuit, and when he had overtaken him Leblanche attacked him furiously with the axe, also hacking him up so badly that he is not expected to live. After this he ran amuck through the streets, the axe in one hand and a revolver, which he took from Larsen, in the other. The villagers, armed with shotguns and clubs, gave chase and opened fire on him. Some of the shots lodged in his legs and body, but he is not seriously wounded.

Was He Buried Alive.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Oct. 29.—F. M. Leider, who took an overdose of morphine Oct. 23 and was supposed to have died, was buried on the 27th. His brother came to day and wanted to see the body. When the coffin was opened it was found Leider had been in a stupor and had come to life in the casket. His face was scratched and the glass on the coffin was broken.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Salvation Army Captain Cicero Jones of Uxbridge died suddenly last Sunday after having attended a meeting in one of the city barracks. Deceased had been in the employ of Rest, Yonge-street, for some time in an ailing condition. On his return home Sunday afternoon he was seized with hemorrhage and died before medical assistance could be procured.

The body of the man found at Beamsville has been identified as that of Thomas Murroe, caretaker of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of this city.

The Prison Commission, after a rest of a few weeks, met in the Private Bills Committee-room at the Parliament Buildings yesterday morning. Those present were: Mr. J. W. Langmuir (chairman), Hon. Charles Drury, Dr. Rosebrugh, A. P. Ferguson and Hon. T. W. Anglin, the secretary. This is the concluding sitting for the purpose of taking evidence.

The witnesses were:

John Mungall, of Owen Sound, jailer, and C. J. Moore, sheriff of Grey.

ALEXANDER SUTHERLAND, jailer, and THOMAS BOWLES, sheriff, Dufferin.

JEFFERY JACKSON, jailer, Victoria.

ABRAHAM LAKE, jailer, and Deputy-Sheriff SMITH of Simcoe.

JOHN GREEN, governor of Toronto jail.

The evidence adduced showed the necessity for better classification of prisoners. At present jail buildings would be capacious enough for good classification if the counties would provide poorhouses for vagrants and the sick and decrepit. The cost of erecting and maintaining these poorhouses would be in the way in spite of the government allowance of $400 to each county. In small offices from the towns and villages, favored their construction, but those from the rural parts objected.

The chief causes of crime were held to be intemperance, idleness and ignorance. Sheriff Moore (Grey) complained that the Truancy Act was not enforced and that many children were growing up in idleness and drifting toward crime.

The Central Prison was described by Jailer Jackson (Lindsay) as a terror to evil-doers on account of the strict discipline and Jailer Miller (Owen Sound) said that it had a deterrent effect, and that many criminals preferred the Kingston Penitentiary, where the work was not so severe.

A number of committees including will give notice in the Ontario Gazette on an application for incorporation under the name of Lloyd's Power Transmitter Company of Belleville (limited). The capital of the company is $25,000; by the Lloyd process the face of iron, wooden and paper pulleys are covered with what the inventor designates Lloyd's power transmitter—being a covering of cotton and cement so blended as to form a perfectly smooth and hard surface, which from its composition possesses the adhesiveness necessary to prevent any slippage of belts. Already most complimentary endorsations have been received from Electric Light Companies lumber and planing mills where the transmitter has been used.

What's a Day's Labor?
ONE day's work for a healthy liver is to secrete three and a half pounds of bile. If the bile secretion be deficient, constipation, nausea, jaundice, biliousness and jaundice arises. Burdock Blood Bitters is the most perfect liver regulator known in medicine for preventing and curing all liver troubles.
Dangerous Counterfeits.
Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The immense popularity acquired by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the Head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balm, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation if dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hop Bitters Co., Brockville, Ont.
Mining News.
Mining experts note that cholera never attacks the bowels of the earth, but humanity in general find it necessary to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for bowel complaints, dysentery, diarrhœa, etc. It is a sure cure.
For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine so generally efficacious as Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It relieves all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately checks the most laborious cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which clogs up the air tubes, and causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that oppressive tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Scott's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it specifically and effectually allays all irritation and tickling in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, render the voice clear and free and easy. It puts the sick, the weak, the nervous and suffering into new pain. While in this state a friend we minded to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. It used one bottle, and the happiest manner in which it has cured all make a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors the expression of my grat tude."

FACTS ABOUT FLIES.

Correction of Several Popular Errors Regarding Their Life and Habits.

"The popular notion that flies walk on the ceiling by the help of the suckers in their feet is a mistake, sir," said a man of science to a Washington Star reporter. "Notwithstanding the testimony to this point of many old and respected authorities, the fact is that flies do have suckers on their feet, at all, but each of these are members such as a pair of little cushions and a pair of hooks. The cushions are covered with over so many knobbed hairs, which are kept moist by an exuding fluid. Thus fully capable to walk or to assume and to cling to any window pane, and apparently defy the law of gravitation by the adhering power of the moist, hairy pads. You will understand the theory of it if you will touch the unscrewed end of your forelinger to the window glass or any smooth surface and observe the perceptible adhesion. For walking on rough surfaces the flies find cushions are of no use, but the insect is provided with the twelve or so hooks mentioned to do its rough travel with, clinging to them many such surfaces as a window sash, wall or plaster.

"Another prevalent fallacy is that the smaller flies seen in houses are young ones. As is the case with all insects, the fly grows by accumulation of the skin, and the little ones with the mouth, from the pupa and the pupilion of the wings. Individual flies differ also considerably, just as do the men with any other animal. Every house fly had you see some one crawling snaggily. The sexes differ, but the house fly are usually deposited in warm manure or in decomposing vegetation. Each stable in summer that is not kept clean is a hatching and propagating place for flies. Within twenty-four hours after the eggs are laid they are hatched into footless maggots, which inhabit the filth they are deposited for a week, then contract to little brown chrysalids known as puparia. Within this hardened case the maggot is transformed into the perfect fly, which crawls out of the puparium five days later, already grown to full size and wings to vay. Thus does your luncheon. A fly lives about three weeks. When the cold weather comes the flies nearly all die but a few survive in some remote corner in a house and crannies, thus surviving the winter and continuing their species."

Preparation for Death.

No human being can rest for any time in a state of equilibrium, where the desire is felt and that to depart just balance each other. If one has a house which he has lived and always desired to live in, he pleases himself as to the length of all the conveniences he offers him, and thinks little of his wants and imperfections. But once having made up his mind to move to a better, every uncomfortably starts out upon him, until the very ground plan of it seems to have changed in his mind and his thoughts and affections, each one of them picking up its little bundle of circumstances, have quitted their several chambers and nooks, and migrated to the new home, long before the sentiments are ready to provide their bodily tenant. It is so with the body. Most persons have died, before they expire—first to all the lively longings, so that the last breath is only, as it were, the locking of the door of the already deserted mansion. The faculties are generally with sufficient great majority of dying persons await the locking of those gates of life through which its airy message will leave the tenement coming from the moment of the first cry is familiar to those who have been often called upon to witness the last period of life.

Almost always there is a preparation made by nature for unearthing a soul, just as our smaller scale there is for the removal of a milk tooth. Those who hold human life to earth are absorbed before it is lifted from its place. Some of the dying are weary and want rest; the idea of which is almost inseparable in the universal mind from death. Some are in pain and want to be rid of it, even though the anodyne be dropped, as in the legend, into the little pitcher of Angel. Some are strong in faith and hope, so that, as they drive near the next world, they would fain hurry, that the canvas moves faster over the sands when the foremost travellers send word along the file that water is in sight. Though the little party that follows in a foot track of its own will believe that the water to which others think they are hastening is a mirage, not the less has it been true in all ages that human beings if every creed which recognized a future, that those who have fallen were cut by their march through the desert, have dreamed at least of a River of Life, and thought they heard its murmurs as they lay dying.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY OCT. 30

MR. WARRINGTON'S VISIT.

The announcement that Mr. J. T. Warrington, the eminent merchant of Liverpool, was to visit the city, was fittingly taken occasion of by the Belleville Chess Board, to express the high esteem in which he is held by the factorymen, as a result of quarter of a century's business relations. Last evening the city Board of Trade banqueted the honored guest, at which entertainment were present the Mayor of the city, the heads of its largest monetary institutions, and many leading citizens.

In response to the toast "The Guest of the evening," Mr. Warrington made an able address, progressive in spirit and interspersed with noble sentiments, showing him to be, as his business relations with this section of the country would indicate, a gentleman of energy, enterprise, high business qualities, and a worthy sire of a respected son, the representative of the House, who has made his home with us.

AN IMPORTANT ADMISSION.

"We believe the best kind of immigration for Canada is that which comes voluntarily, adult al immigrants and farm laborers attracted by reliable reports of the advantages afforded by Canadian people who are ready to take things as they find them, to occupy the farms of those who have remove from Eastern Canada to the Northwest, to hew out homes for themselves in the forests of the Eastern Provinces or to dot the prairies of the Northwest with comfortable homesteads."—Montreal Herald, Oct 27th.

For once, to our amazement, we find ourselves in accord with the political sentiment of our Eastern contemporary, and are happy to place before our readers the above ungarbled extract from its editorial columns; but where, we would ask, are we to look for the "reliable reports of the advantages afforded by Canada"? Certainly not in the Herald, for in the same issue from which we took the foregoing paragraph that journal prints three columns and a quarter of a doleful jeremiad lately delivered by Sir Richard Cartwright at Pembroke, in which he as usual misrepresents the country as trembling on the very verge of annihilation from the loss of its "natural market," and its people as groaning down to poverty and almost to despair by excessive taxation, and anxiously longing for the time when they may overturn the present Government and secure the blessing of "unrestricted reciprocity," which Sir Richard proposes to extract by some hitherto undiscovered process from the United States, although both the Government and the people (through the press) of that country have expressed their firm determination to grant that only on condition of political annexation. And this inane, untruthful and injurious diatribe the Herald ushers in to the notice of its readers with a special article of editorial approval, although it knows that such misrepresentations are calculated, and intended, to divert the course of desirable immigrants from our shores, so as to score a point against the Government by defeating their emigration policy, while at the same both our contemporary and Sir Richard know that the people of Canada at the present time are enjoying a degree of prosperity unequalled by any nation on earth.

N. B.—The above affords a fine opportunity for garbling, of which we expect the Herald to avail itself.

SADLY ASTRAY.

By way of encouraging the farmers of Ontario to seek other markets than the United States for their products, a protectionist journal tells them that the export of cheese to Great Britain last year was worth $9,000,000, while 25 years ago there was not a cheese factory in the land, and that in like manner the business of exporting cattle to Great Britain has been created in the last ten or twelve years, and is now worth $5,000,000 a year. Neither the industry of raising cheese nor the industry of raising cattle has received the slightest aid from the N.P. These hardy plants have thriven, although—or because—the Government left them alone.—Globe, Oct. 27.

The Globe is sadly astray as to cheese. So long ago as 1866 a duty of 3c. per pound was imposed upon cheese, which had previously been free. Under this impost the advancement of the industry was stimulated to an enormous extent. So unmistakable, indeed, were the benefits of this duty that the Grits, when in power, did not interfere with it, and it has remained unchanged from the date of its enactment until the present. This duty was not altered by the N.P., because it was sufficiently protective without increase, being equivalent to an ad valorem duty of about 30 per cent.

As to cattle, the duty has been increased from 10 per cent under the Cartwright tariff to 20 per cent., and the result has been to largely increase the export and to decrease the import.

In 1880-1, for instance we imported of horned cattle (entered for home consumption) 3,170, valued at $81,124, from the United States and 188 9 only 748, the value of $21,750. Our exports of cattle in 1880 1—the first full year of the N.P.—were 54,944, valued at $2,764,437, and in 1888-9, 102,919, valued at $5,708,126. Thus in the short space covered by this comparative statement, our importation of cattle was, under a duty of 20 per cent, but one fourth of what it had been under a 10 per cent import, and our exportation more than doubled in value.

And yet, in the face of these facts, the Globe has the audacity to say that "neither the industry of making cheese nor the industry of raising cattle has received the slightest aid from the N. P." (meaning protection).

If the Globe has any belief in its own assertion, let it advocate the removal of duties on cheese and live animals.

MADOC

Serious Runaway Accident—Fires—Sale of Building Lots—Lacrosse.

(From our own Correspondent.)

MADOC, Oct. 29.

Mr. Henry Blockley, of Huntingdon, was in town on Monday. He started for home in the afternoon, and when near the railway bridge the afternoon train for Belleville came along. The team became frightened and ran away, throwing Mrs. Blockley out of the wagon. She received severe injuries. At first, she was reported killed. Her injuries are a broken leg and three broken ribs. At last accounts she was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Mr Blockley was but slightly hurt.

On Friday morning, a small barn the property of Mr. Dingman, was destroyed by fire. No insurance. The loss was a small one.

On Saturday evening an old house out on the commons was burned. It was a relic of by gone days.

On Saturday the sale of the Russell estate took place. Only a portion was sold, and the greater part of the lots sold were to parties who had already bought them, and in some cases had paid for them in full and held deeds from Mrs. Russell. It is quite likely there will be some results before the matter is ended. The sale brought to our village Mr. Russell, of Montreal; Col. Lazier, Mr. Phillips, and Mr. Geo. D. Dickson, of Belleville. One of the drawbacks to our village was the high price at which building lots were held; it deterred many from building. This will put a stop to it, and the prospects for new buildings going up in the near future are very bright.

Our Lacrosse club have secured fine grounds, and next season we will be favored with some more sport, as it is intended to form a circuit, taking in some of the best clubs. Our baseball teams have gone into winter quarters, some say for repairs.

GLADSTONE ON M'KINLEY

HE SPEAKS AT FORFARSHIRE'S ROYAL BOROUGH, DUNDEE.

The Effect of the McKinley Tariff He Says will be to Elevate and Improve the Taste of British Manufacturers—Admiral Fremantle Burns Vita Village.

SAVERNAKE, Oct. 29.—Vice-Admiral Fremantle, commander of the British fleet, who sailed on the flagship Bonaloca to Vita, East Africa, to cooperate with the Germans in punishing the natives for massacring Germans, has captured Vita. The town was burned to the ground. Three European sailors were wounded.

GLADSTONE AT DUNDEE.

He Characterizes Protection as a Misnomer—A Del uge of Gold a Bounty.

DUNDEE, Oct. 29.—Mr. Gladstone arrived here at noon to-day and was met at the station by the provost and councilmen. Immense throngs surrounded the station and extended far along the approaches thereto.

Mr. Gladstone remarked that protection plundered and defrauded the people of his country which adopted it. He said every country giving greater stringency of protection within its borders, though damaging us within its own market, gave us a free and broader field in other markets. It was not possible for Great Britain to receive a vital or profound injury from any of these operations abroad. France and Germany threatened retaliation. England should not be led into such suicidal folly (Cheers). There were still capital and plenty of resources in this great country to hold and keep its place in the markets of the world.

Mr. Gladstone spoke of the plan of a zollverein of the whole British empire, including the colonies and dependencies, against all foreign countries. He doubted much whether the whole empire would consent. It would be hard upon countries pursuing free trade with England to punish them because some particular country had adopted a restricted system of commerce. The zollverein would to some extent enlarge commerce with the colonies, but it would contract commerce with the rest of the world. The amount of imperial commerce was £187,000,000 yearly, whereas the foreign commerce amounted to £554,000,000. It would be a most inglorious policy to clog British energy and enterprise in a market of £554,000,000 yearly in order to enlarge action with a market of one-third that amount.

The operation of the McKinley tariff might not disturb trade so much as some expected. America must get paid for her exports to England and must take payment either in British manufactures or in foreign or colonial goods through English markets. One effect of the McKinley tariff would be to direct the attention of British manufacturers towards the production of finer goods, because these bore the least intolerable protective rate. The result would be to elevate and improve the taste of British manufacturers, to spur them on and stimulate their ingenuity. (Cheers.)

The probable tendency produced by it by the tariff among Americans would be towards manufacture of coarser goods, thus degrading their productions. Although America had gone on tightening her protective system, she had not lessened English trade. In spite of protection commerce between America and Great Britain had rapidly and greatly increased. The experience of the past ought to dispel alarms that the McKinley law would effect material injury. The harm to English commerce would be fractional compared with that done to people of the protected country.

The word protection was a misnomer. It ought to be reprisal. It was a delusion and a fraud. America was the country that could best afford to try this strange and astonishing waterwheel. Her natural wealth, soil, minerals and immense territory made her a world in herself. With the vast amount of free trade within herself nothing could interfere. The possession of these enormous advantages helped to disguise the truth from American reasoners. But the adoption of the McKinley law would involve a fearful waste of resources by which her people ought to be made strong and happy. (Cheers.) He advised that we should not complain so much of injury to ourselves first, because it was impolitic, and next because it would be mainly untrue. (Cheers.) Substantial interchange would be done to us despite occasional injury might here and there result.

In conclusion Mr. Gladstone said: "If we have faith in the economic and moral truth of free trade let us have faith in their vindication sooner or later in America as well as east. People so acute as the Americans will find the way to results best for themselves sooner and more effectually if respectfully left to themselves, especially by the people of England, who ought to show that as much as they value America's commerce they value her friendship and regard still more."

HONORS COME HIGH.

The French Republican Scheme for Making Royalists Pay for Their Rank.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Moreau's bill looking to the abolition of titles in France by taking them by force provides an annual impost, thus graded: For prefix "De," 500 francs; for title of "Baron," 5000 francs; "Vicomte," 10,000 francs; "Comte," 20,000 francs; "Marquis," 50,000 francs; "Duke," 50,000 francs and "Prince," 100,000 francs, while for Duke or Count with prefix "Hallmen" 200,000 francs, and Prince with same prefix 250,000 francs. The scheme is ingeniously devised, but scarcely practical, as if the Republican majority should deem it politic to deprive descendants of old family of the prefixes now left them they would probably vote to do so directly.

THE PROPER KIND OF AID.

Balfour Loses No Time in Constructing the Work of Irish and Railways.

DUBLIN, Oct. 29.—Mr. Balfour has pushed forward the arrangements for the construction of railways in the distressed districts in the west of Ireland. The work of building the roads will furnish employment for a host of laborers, besides those living in the districts through which the roads will be built. Men coming from a distance can, if they desire, have a part of their wages remitted free of charge to their families.

Mr. Balfour and party, occupying seats in the mail coach, visited the villages of Oney Island, ending the trip at Clifden, the proposed terminus of the new railway. At this place Mr. Balfour addressed 500 people in the open air. The party then returned to Kylemore. At every place visited Mr. Balfour was accorded a cordial reception.

Was Gabrielle Hypnotised?

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Eyraud trial promises to be of peculiar interest. One scientific subject will be very thoroughly gone into, and that is hypnotism. Maitre Henri Robert, the counsel for the woman, Gabrielle Bompard, has decided to make a test question of the issue whether his client was or was not hypnotized, as she claims, by her accomplice, Eyraud. Professor Charcot will call Drs. Charcot and Voisin, and these gentlemen will, it is said, make hypnotic experiments in open court. The contention of M. Robert is that Gabrielle was not responsible for her actions, having been hypnotized by Eyraud, and so remained during the entire period of their intercourse.

The police were for a long time unable to obtain the head of the murderer, but the man has at last been found. He is a native Hungarian, and he has been known to the police for several years as a scoundrel of the worst class.

WILL STRIKE AT THE TRAFFIC.

Secretary Windom About to Strike a Retaliatory Blow at Canadian Trade.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Windom's annual report will contain a recommendation that the privileges now enjoyed by the Canadian Railways in transporting freight for this country shall be materially abridged. In a communication to the Senate concerning this subject Secretary Windom said:

I am informed that since the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway goods arriving at Vancouver, British Columbia, from Asiatic ports destined for the United States have been placed in the cars of that company, which were then sealed by the United States consul at that port and forwarded to their destination in the United States. I think that this practice has been acquiesced in by this department in so far that the customs officials at the frontier ports of arrival have respected the consular seals and allowed the cars to go forward without duty and examination of their contents if the seals were found intact.

I am of the opinion that it was the intent of the law to confine the privileges of the consular seals to cars containing merchandise in the contiguous country and that such privilege does not extend to cars containing merchandise unladed in the contiguous country for transit through it to the United States. In the view of the law it is in contemplation to restrict the privilege to cars containing merchandise in the contiguous country.

It is well understood that the administration is determined in some way to bring Canada to terms for her arbitrary action in the matter of the Behring Sea and North Atlantic fisheries. It is believed that this end may be secured by striking at the system of Canadian railways, and especially their transcontinental route. The business which these roads secure from the United States forms a considerable part of their entire transactions.

The administration argues that if the railways are made to see how dependent they are upon the goodwill of the Washington Government they will use their influence to secure a satisfactory adjustment of the pending international controversies. What form the recommendation will take cannot at present be stated. There is no doubt, however, that the Administration is very much in earnest in this matter and that the Secretary's utterances will represent the wishes both of President Harrison and his constitutional advisers.

DEATH HELD THE TILLER.

A C.P.R. Passenger Poisoned by Carbolic Acid.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29.—A second-class passenger named Bright, coming from Victoria over the C.P.R. to Duluth, to-day, drank some carbolic acid which was stored in a closet in a colonist car, mistaking it for whisky. This was when 40 miles out of Winnipeg. He had been drinking pretty heavy all the way down. Officials gave the sufferer emetics and Bright was taken to the hospital on arrival here. He died shortly after wards. Deceased was formerly C.P.R. policeman at Green.

W.C.T.U.

KINGSTON, Oct. 29.—At the W.C.T.U. convention to-day Mrs. H. L. Platt, Picton, presented a report from the departments of scientific temperance instruction which stated that excellent work had been done in the department for the past year. Much progress has already been made as is shown by the fact that in 1889 the number of public school pupils taking up the subject increased from 71,535 to 141,566, and in 1889 there is a further increase of 9692.

The report on provincial press work was read by Mrs. Carman, press superintendent. All were agreed in the influence of the press for good or evil, and it was a duty and responsibility to make that influence tell for the good of humanity.

A memorial was read from the Toronto district, W.C.T.U., stating its withdrawal from the union of the county of York, and asking the provincial union to recognize it a district one.

Sunday School Convention.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 29.—At to-day's session of the Sunday School convention a series of addresses were delivered. Rev. John Mc Teven spoke upon "Sabbath School Work in Rural District."

Mr. Lewis C. Peake, chairman of the Executive Committee, discussed the question "normal classes," in relation to teaching and teaching. Dr. Birchard advocated normal teaching.

The annual report of the convention was submitted by the general secretary, Mr. Day. Numerically and financially the association is stronger to-day than ever. During the past year over 437 new schools have been added to the convention, while 6986 new teachers and 66,430 new scholars have come forward to teach and be taught during that same period. The report forcibly suggests the sub-division of the work into districts of about 12 equal parts. It is argued that the work would be lighter and responsibility would materially assist in the advancement of the work.

REGINA, Oct. 29.—The Northwest Assembly was opened by Lieut.-Governor Royal. Credit was given the Mounted Police for their services in suppressing the illegal liquor traffic and in other ways.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET

Tendered to John T. Warrington, Esq., of Liverpool, Eng.

A Pleasant Gathering—Intellectual and Patriotic Addresses.

A complimentary banquet was last evening tendered to John T. Warrington, Esq., of Liverpool, by the Board of Trade of the city. The attendance was not large but the representative men of the city were present. The spread was prepared by Mr. Jas. Jenkins, of the "Hub," and was as usual a bountiful one, the tables being supplied with all the delicacies of the season, and the arrangements were perfect. Ald. L. W. Yeomans, President of the Board, occupied the chair, and at his right sat the distinguished guest of the evening and Mr. C. M. Stock, Manager of the Bank of Commerce. At the left of the chairman were seated Mayor Tickell and Mr. R. Richardson, Manager of the Montreal Bank. The vice-chair was filled by Lt.-Col. S. S. Lazier. Seated around the festive board were the following gentlemen: Messrs. T. Wills, County Treasurer, ex-M.P.P., A. N. Reid, Vice President of the Board of Trade, D. B. Robertson, City Clerk, W. H. Biggar, M.P.P., J. J. B. Flint, Police Magistrate, J. W. Johnson, P. J. M. Anderson; John G. Frost; G. H. Pope; A. Brignall; W. Alford; J. W. Murray, Manager of the Dominion Bank; W. Cook, J. C. Jamieson, J. D. Clarke, U. E. Thompson, private banker, D. M. Waters, T. C. Lazier, John T. Warrington, jr., W. R. Carmichael, W. N. Ponton, J. L. Biggar, J. P. Thompson, J. F. Thomas, Hy. Pringle, J. Brazier, R. Elliott, Mordan Bird, B. C. McDargan and S. Lazier.

After justice had been done to the menu the chairman called upon Mr. J. P. Thomas, Secretary of the Board of Trade, to read letters of regret which had been received from Hon. R. Read, Mr. R. Mathison, of the D & D. Institute, and Col. Strong. The following toasts were then proposed and responded to:

The Queen.

"She the authoress of all O'er our hearts, Queen."
—Shelley.

"One life, one flag, one fleet, one throne,
And God guard all!"
—Tennyson.

The Oddfellows' orchestra which was present, under the leadership of Prof. Riggs, rendered the national anthem, the company rising and singing it.

The Governor-General and Dominion of Canada.

"For you must know we have with special soul
Elected him our absence to supply,
Lent him our terror, our love."

Ex-Ald. Johnson, in responding, said they were present to do honor to a distinguished guest. They had previously honored his son as a citizen of the city. Great credit was due to the Mayor of Liverpool for what they had accomplished in the cheese industry. In speaking of the Dominion, the speaker referred to our timber and mineral resources, also our great canals. We were glad to honor Old England, the land from which the guest came. In referring to the cheese trade he said that Mr. Warrington had furnished the capital to carry on the trade; he had laid it at our very doors and we had taken it. Canada was a great country and one which we were proud of.

Mr. W. R. Carmichael rendered a beautiful selection at this stage of the proceedings.

The Army, Navy and Volunteers.

"And ever upon the topmost roof our Banner of Britain blaz."
—Tennyson.

Lt.-Col. T. Wills, in responding to this toast, said that the British army had been great in reverses as well as in victories. The British sailors had also done their duty whenever called upon. Our volunteers were the descendants of a great race. On different occasions they had demonstrated that they were ready for duty whenever occasion required.

Major T. U. Lazier said the deeds of the British soldiers were recorded in history, where all might read of them. The mother country had given us a fruitful heritage, and had also given us a responsible government. Our country was great, extending from ocean to ocean. We had made great progress during the past 21 years, and we would continue to do so. In speaking of the volunteers, he said it was an honorable vocation to defend our home and to fight as our forefathers fought and died.

Our Guest.

"The right man in the right place!"
A merchant of great traffic through the world."
—Shakespeare.

The Chairman, in proposing this toast, stated that he had great pleasure in welcoming Mr. Warrington, the guest, to the city. His representative here was an honored citizen. He hoped that this would not be the last visit of Mr. Warrington to this place. The cheese industry was one of the many that would connect us more closely with the mother country.

Mr. John T. Warrington, senior, in rising to respond, was received with loud applause. He thanked them for the enthusiastic manner in which he had been received, and for their display of friendship towards him. He came out to this country, and to Belleville, for which he entertained the highest esteem (loud applause). This was his first visit to this country, and he was more than delighted with what he had seen of it. The air was pure and exhilarating, and the sky above was clear. When in Montreal he saw in the open square, a statue of Queen Victoria. He felt he was in a country which would be a stanch and sincere friend to Great Britain. England was loyal to the great Dominion of Canada (loud applause). Her army, navy, and her money would be spent if necessary, in defence of this beloved Canada. He referred to the inexhaustible stores of wealth here hidden in the earth awaiting a power to unearth them, and it was God's will to raise up men who would unveil these hidden treasures. If Canada wants great business enterprises opened up, she can have untold millions of money. England wants to find a market for her money safely. We were approaching to a better state of affairs. The world in general was never better than it is to day. Let all try to find out what they can do to help on this state of affairs. When he returned home, he would expatiate upon the splendor of Canada, and especially of the city of Belleville. He could and would speak of Belleville as a beautiful place. He had dined with the Prince of Wales, and other members of the Royal family, with Lords and gentlemen, but he had not found men who were more sociable or intelligent than those who were around the present festive board.

At the conclusion of his able and patriotic address, the speaker was loudly cheered.

At this stage of the proceedings the remaining toasts were handed over to the vice chair.

The Parliaments and Legislature.

"Don't to party give up what is meant for mankind."
—Goldsmith.

Mr. W. H. Biggar, M.P.P., was called upon to respond to this toast. After paying a compliment to the guest of the evening, he said that the cheese industry was an important one for this country. In speaking of the McKinley bill, he believed that the United States would see the folly of that act. There was a strong feeling toward the mother country since the bill had been passed. The people of Canada showed that they were a loyal people. It was right to honor gentlemen such as their guest. He hoped that he would long be spared to represent the industry in which he was engaged.

Mr. W. N. Ponton gave a recitation entitled "The Song of the Camp."

The Industrial Interests of Canada.

"Men my brothers, men the workers, ever reaping something new
That which they have done, but earnest of the things which they shall do."
"Blessed be agriculture!"
"The sinkas chain of commerce!"

Mr. Hy. Pringle was the first to respond to this toast. He said that when we considered Canada with its 5,000,000 of people, the progress which it had made had been equal to, if it had not surpassed that of the United States with its tens of millions. In the manufacture of cheese Canada showed that she can compete with the nations which were much older. Our country had shown good results in the past and he was certain it would in the future. The people of Canada were not a people who could be intimidated.

Ex-Ald. John G. Frost was pleased to be present to do honor to the guest. The passage of the McKinley bill had stirred up the feeling of loyalty to the Old Country. He believed that Canada would rise to the occasion and show that she was not dependent upon one source of trade. They would show that they were not confined to the trade of the United States. It would weld the sentiment, and will unite more closely the relations of Canada to the mother country.

Mr. John T. Warrington, jr., was called upon. He said that he came to this country some 18 years ago and the greater portion of that time he had been a resident of this beautiful city. His heart was with Canada. He came here to stay. England's interest he had at heart. The McKinley bill was the greatest boon Canada ever had. Since its adoption he had sent six shipments of eggs to England, and had reaped good returns. It would make Canadians more loyal. They could defy the United States. Canadian cheese was worth one cent more per pound than that of the United States manufacture. The United States must have our barley and they will have to pay for it. We were under a free government and were a free people. So long as he lived he would feel that God was first, the Queen second and Canada third (loud cheers). Canada was the best country on the face of the earth and it was Anglo Saxon. He would endeavor to do all he could to promote its interest.

By request Mr. Carmichael recited "Abu Kles" in his usual pleasing and forcible style.

Our City's Prosperity.

"Heaven helps those who helps themselves."
"A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together"
"Give us a taste of your quality."
—Hamlet.

Mayor Tickell, in replying, said the guest had brought Canada into prominence by the industry which he represented. He had circulated a great deal of money in this city and district. In speaking of the city's prosperity, the speaker referred to the bridge across the bay, which signified that we were about to be annexed to Prince Edward County, the only species of annexation that we desired. The Murray Canal was proving to be a source of advantage to the city. In view of this the Harbor Commissioners were, with the assistance of the member for West Hastings and the Dominion Government, improving the harbor. The City Council were also endeavoring to promote the prosperity of the city.

Mr. J. J. B. Flint, Police Magistrate, said that although the guest of the evening was a stranger to them, his name was a familiar one. It was a name that was recognized as one of integrity. The house had paid a large sum of money into the pockets of the farmers of this county. If the cheese industry was taken away from Canada we would become a poor nation, as grain was not at present remunerative. He was pleased that we, as a county, were prospering. The guest was able in his capacity to do great things for the country and he (the speaker) was certain that he would. The city of Belleville could not be surpassed for beauty, and he regretted that the guest had not seen it at its best. If required the McKinley bill to show what Canadians were. If it meant commercial war with the United States, let it come; we will fight before we will yield to any foreign power. If necessary, the old canoe would and the old flag would come to our rescue, and our young men were prepared to defend the flag.

Mr. D. B. Robertson, City Clerk, was proud to be present to do honor to such a distinguished guest whose son had long been among us, and was beloved by all.

Song by Mr. Robertson.—"Maggie's by my Side."

"The Financial Institutions of the City."

Mr. R. Richardson said, our financial men were honest; our system was much better than that of the United States. We have had but few failures of banks in this country, resulting from bad management and not from any fault of our banking system. If we had not control of money, we had plenty. We had sufficient competition to make trade healthy. He had a great deal of respect toward the guest of the evening. What would be to his interest would be to ours. We had here just as fertile lands as they had in old England. The cattle trade, he prophesied, was destined to be a great factor for Canada, as was the cheese trade at present.

Mr. C. M. Stock referred to the absence of good cattle breeding in the County of Hastings. He gave as an instance a farmer who, unable to procure more than 35cts. a bushel for barley, had fed it to cattle, and had realized 70cts. a bushel for it. It was profitable to grow grain here to feed cattle. In speaking of the guest he paid him a high compliment, and referred to his son as a citizen who was honored and esteemed.

The Press.

Not the chosen press, nor the press gang—but the other fellow—the Fourth Estate
Responded to by Mr. J. C. Jamieson, of the INTELLIGENCER.

The Ladies.

"Let us embrace—the opportunity!"

Responded to by Messrs. S. Lazier, Jos. Johnson, D. M. Waters, W. H. Biggar, M. P.P., and D. B. Robertson.

Volunteer Toasts.

Many toasts and neatly buttered
Followed the cheese and cheese
With the songs of love and laughter.

A number of volunteer toasts were proposed and responded to.

Mr. J. W. Johnson proposed the toast of "John T. Warrington, jr." In responding Mr. Warrington thanked him for the kind reception which they had tendered him. So long as he was a resident he would do all he could for the city's interest.

SONG—Mr. J. T. Warrington, jr., "Marching through Georgia."

Recitation—Mr. W. R. Carmichael.

Mr. Warrington proposed the toast of "Mr. Carmichael," who responded.

Mr. Warrington, sen., proposed a vote of thanks to the president, Ald. L. W. Yeomans. We had honored ourselves by doing honor to the guest of the evening.

Song by the company, "Red, White and Blue."

Mr. W. H. Biggar, M.P.P., proposed the toast of the "Mercantile Industry." Responding to the toast, Mr. A. N. Reid said it was a pleasure to the Board of Trade to do honor to the guest of the evening. The McKinley bill may do us more good than harm.

Mr. J. P. Thompson responded briefly.

The Mayor proposed the toast of the "vice chair" coupled with the name of Col. Lazier. The Col. in replying said he took a great interest in the welfare of the city of Belleville. He was always prepared to assist in entertaining distinguished guests, such as the guest of the evening. He thanked them for the hearty manner in which the toast had been received.

The company broke up at an early hour after singing "Auld Lang Syne," and "God Save the Queen."

As a family medicine, Ayer's Pills excel all others. They are suited to every age, being sugar-coated, are easy to take. Though searching and thorough in effect, they are mild and pleasant in action, and their use is attended with no injurious results.

The Lyrical Notes

State of Business—Mrs. Beere—The Lions in Nero—The Ladder of Fame.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.

The status of the business of the current theatrical attractions in New York is thus epitomized:—Academy, "The Old Homestead."—Enormous. Niblo's, "Claudius Nero"—Tremendous. Metropolitan Opera House—Closed. Broadway Theatre, "Paul Jones"—Prosperous. Palmer's, Jefferson Florence—Distinguished. Bijou Theatre, "City Directory"—Substantial. Fifth Avenue Theatre, Kendall's—Ultra. Madison Square Theatre, Mansfield—Ordinary. Madison Square Garden, Sold Concerts—Big. Lyceum Theatre, "Dr. Bill"—Sick. Casino, "Poor Jonathan"—Good; no tights. Lal's, "New Lamps for Old."—Prosperous. Fourteenth Street Theatre, "Hue Dans,"—Prosperous. Bijou Theatre, "The Maister of Woodbarrow"—Prosperous. Herrmann's Opera, "Suzette"—Vitality low. Standard, "Senator"—Sessions large. Twenty-third St. Theatre, "Men and Women"—Prosperous. Union Square Theatre, "County Fair."

Mrs. Bernard Beere, the Sarah Bernhardt of the English speaking stage, will tour this country next season under the management of E. G. Gilmore and Alex. Comstock, of the Academy of Music, New York. Mrs. Beere brings a full English company, and ten complete sets of scenery from London for the presentation of a repertoire of excellent plays.

Six full-blooded African lions, aageless, straying about the stage of a theatre, unletered and forty-five, ranging from a few feet of audiences protected by a curtain of solid steel network is the spectacle which is just now drawing immense crowds to Niblo's at each performance of the successful grand dramatic pageant, "Claudius Nero." Niblo's has never enjoyed such audiences, in all its eventful history.

Many and important are the ways of the theatrical profession. Emmet was content with earning fifty dollars occasionally for a week's service, before he made fame and fortune, with his "Fritz in Ireland." De Wolf Hopper, Rolund Reed and Humble Powers was slow, but they eventually got there. The struggles of Lawrence Barrett and Public recognition were long and painful, but he is now reaping rich reward for his perseverance and energy. Out of 40,000 players in the country only about one-half of one per cent. can be said to be highly successful: but fifty per cent make a comfortable living, while the remainder may be said to suffer a hand to mouth existence. Even some of the most luckless, though, there is a strong ambition, coupled with the belief that they will some day win a place near the top. Taken altogether, stage folk are a generous, good natured, merry set of educators, to whom the world owes much, and would be a grave place indeed without.

DENNY, Ga., Oct. 28.—Sam Woolfolk, who murdered his father, step-mother, six other members of the family and Mrs. Temple West, was hanged at his home near Bainbridge, Ga., to-day. LONDON, Oct. 30.—In an article in The Contemporary Review, Dr. Felix Rosen, relative to be authorized by Emin Bey, asserts that Mr. Stanley more than once threatened to leave Emin to accompany him to the coast.

Peters accuses Stanley of drinking wine at his dinner in a manner European fashion, while the others at the same table were without wine and ate negro fare.

In an interview published in The Telegraph, Mr. Stanley says that Emin is in russolo and evading the charge that he left the scum of his men with Major Bartelot, declares that the bad state of the rear column was due to occurrences too horrible to describe in all their horrors. If fully described they would make an Englishman's blood boil and his cheeks burn with shame. Being asked what caused the wholesale deaths there, Mr. Stanley excitedly asserted that he saw men with holes in their bodies alive with maggots. In answer to Troup's charges Mr. Stanley said whether if they were in his own return would have caused enthusiasm and rejoicing in the rear column as it did. He accuses Troup of fabricating and addition, and says the failure of the officers to protest against Bartelot's action to justify themselves occupied him to include all four in one condemnation. Mr. Stanley says he possesses letters of 38 pages from Troup containing matter which he could publish, and that Troup refuses to modify it.

In reply to the charge that he sought fame and riches Mr. Stanley says he spent £12,000 on the expedition, before the start was made, and distributed £4000 among the members of the expedition on their return for the admirable service they rendered during the African campaign. After describing in a graphic manner the death of Major Bartelot he concluded by emphatically declaring that he knew nothing of the alleged immorality in the rear column and that the trouble was something entirely different.

A Maniac at the Throttle.

READING, Pa., Oct. 29.—Shortly after midnight an unknown person entered the dispatcher's office of the Reading Railway here and demanded a free pass to Lebanon. When it was refused he threatened to fight the official and rushed out into the train gallery, where two engines and an empty passenger train of cars were standing. At the pistol point he drove off the engineer of one of the engines and mounted the cab himself, keeping off an officer with drawn pistol. The man with his other hand pulled the throttle and the engine started with a rush. The locomotive crashed into a passenger train, pushed it and engine ahead, and off they started for Lebanon at a high rate of speed. After going half a mile an officer, who had jumped on the train, shut down the brakes and stopped it just as a posse of officers came up to the rear engine. The desperate man then leaped from the cab and escaped in the darkness.

Self-Application of Electricity for Medical Purposes, by the Dorenwend Electric Belt and Adjustments

The world's best! All diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend appliances. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made, which fulfils the requirements of electro-medical science. It is a complete body battery. It has an independent battery which generates a mild, continuous current of electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a current of quantity, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for Indigestion, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Liver and Kidney Troubles, Weak Back, Spinal Disease, Heart Trouble, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Vertigo, Female Complaints, Impotence, Sexual Decline, and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the Dorenwend's Belt is the very latest invention in this line; it was invented by a competent electrician and ranks as the best in the market; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary. Do not confound this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap, useless articles buy them; but if you want to procure a genuine electric belt and one that will be of benefit get a Dorenwend's Belt.

Send name and address for illustrated book on Home Electro-Medical treatment and mention this paper. The Dorenwend Electric Belt & Attachment Co., C. H. DORENWEND, Electrician, 103 Yonge St., Toronto, Can.

The Dorenwend Belt is the only one that will stand close examination. Others keep clear of it while we solicit it.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O Lowrie," &c., &c.

At first Pepita was glad to have her suitors had ever seen her. She delighted to talk and smile and listen. She had the restlessness and color of a tropical bird, and the vengeful Isabella looked at her in wonder.

"She was never like this before," she whispered to Juan.

And when Sebastiano came, and for the time they saw only him.

When at last the dull lay an inert mass in the dust, and the people shouted and almost flung themselves from their places into the arena in their excitement, and the gay and superb actor bowed to them, bowed again and again, Pepita sat like a little image of stone. She was quite colorless and her eyes wide and fixed. She seemed to see and hear nothing until someone spoke to her. Then she rose and looked at Manuelo.

"It is too hot," she said in a low voice not like her own, "I must go. The sun. I have a headache in my head. Come."

He had not lifted his eyes once to her. It was as if she had not lived—as she had been Isabella or Carmenita—and he did not give her a thought. No, he had not once looked at her.

The next day he was gone. She heard Jose say so to Jovita, who grumbled loudly. She had forgotten her old distaste for these "fine men."

"And but for her humors he would have stayed," she said. "What more does she want than a fine well-built man like that—a man who is well to do, and whom every other girl would dance for joy to get. But no; nothing but a prince for her. Well, we shall see. She will work for her bread herself at last, and serve the other women who have homes and husbands."

In the middle of the night she was wakened from her slumbers by something—she knew not what. Soon she perceived it was Pepita trembling.

"What is it now?" demanded the old woman.

"I stayed out in the dew too long," said Pepita; "and I am cold."

"That is well," said Jovita. "Get chilled through and have a fever that we may ruin ourselves with doctors' bills; and all because you choose to remain in the night air when you should be asleep."

Pepita lay on her pillow, her eyes wide open in the darkness, her small hot hand clutching against her breast something she hung round her neck by a bit of ribbon. It was the devise she had stolen from Jovita, and which had not been thrown away at all. In the day time it was hidden in the bosom of her dress—at night it hung by a cord and her hand held it. By this time a sort of terror had mingled itself with her passion and anger and pain; and she lay trembling because she was saying to herself again and again:

"I am like Sarita! I am like Sarita!"

She said it to herself a thousand times in the weeks and months which followed, and which seemed to her helplessness like years. She said it in as many moods as there were hours in the day. Sometimes with wild reasoning childish rage—sometimes with a shock of fear—sometimes in a frenzy of shame—sometimes as she stood and looked up the road, her cheeks pale, her eyes dilated with self-pity and tears.

"I am like Sarita! Yes—Sarita!"

She was sometimes in right superstitious terror of all the things that had been said to her of the punishment that would fall upon her because of her hard-heartedness. She remembered Jovita's prophecies and how she had mocked them—how cruel she had been to those who suffered for her—how she had laughed in their faces and turned away from their sighs. She remembered Filippo whom she had not spared one pang. Filippo, at whom she had only stared in scorn when he wept and rung his hands before her. He felt like this when she sent him back to Seville to despair!

A cruel fever of restlessness burned her. She could find pleasure no more in the novelties of the city, in the gaities of the gardens, in her own beauty.

Sometimes she was sure it was magic—the evil eye. And she slipped away, poor child, and knelt in the still, cool church, and prayed to be delivered.

But once as she was doing this a sudden thought struck her.

"Not to think of him any more," she said, knitting her brows with yet another new pang. "Not to remember his face—not to remember his voice and the words he said! No, no! And her rosary slipped from her fingers and fell upon the stone floor, and she picked it up and rose from her knees and went away.

All that day and night she thought and thought, and the next day went to pray again; but not that she might be delivered. She brought to the shrine at which she knelt substantial promises as offerings. Her vows were not the prayers of a wild, but of a passionate importunate child, self willed and tempestuous. She would not have prayed if she could have hoped for help from any earthly source. She had never prayed for anything before. She had always taken what she wanted and gone her way; just she had had few needs. Now in this strange anguish she could do nothing for herself, and surely it was the place of the Virgin and the saints to help her. She turned the painted wax figure in its niche with appeals which were insolent like demands.

Sometimes she could not bear to think of her home coming back and not finding her return. Make him come to her she will some night—yes, to-night. He must not know that she was like Sarita—but he must come; and whatever she did or said he must not go away again. She would call her her necklace—the silver comb her mother had left her—the comb her father had given her mother in the days of their courtship—she would do anything she could to be with him. Mother some candles and flowers—he must come back—and he must not go away again, whatever she did.

She knelt upon the stone floor, her hands wrung together, pouring forth the same words over thickly, over and over—each repetition more intense than the last—all her young strength going out into the appeal.

And still she had not yet reached the point of knowing what she should do and say when he came.

When she tried so rise to her feet she was obliged to make two efforts before she succeeded. She had given such a passion of strength to her siege that she was almost exhausted, and she went out into the dazzling sunlight trembling. She did this day after day—day after day—and at night she waited by the wall, but the road was always the same.

And she could hear nothing—not a word. She could not ask—even though sometimes as she sat and gazed at Jose with hungry eyes it seemed as if she must drop dead if he did not speak. But he did not speak because he could have told her but little, and was quite secure in his belief that the mere mention of Sebastiano's name aroused her. So the time went by—weeks and months—until at last one evening she went to the church and prayed a new prayer.

FELLOW - CITIZENS
Insure your Life in the Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company

where the payments get less after first three years, and not be carried away by a so-called lower rate, which increases as you get older—but the agent probably forgets to tell you this.

The time for you to pay your insurance is while you are physically able to earn it and can pay more in the declining years of life than you do now. What you should have is a

TERM - LIFE - OR - ENDOWMENT - POLICY

in this Company, where the full amount is guaranteed at the end of the term—not merely estimates of what may be, but "positive guarantees." It is all very well for an agent to tell you what you will get at the end of 10, 15 or 20 years, but remember that the policies don't guarantee scarcely one half what the agent estimates, and he may be in a distant land long before that time. Look at their contracts and compare them with the guaranteed cash values of the Ontario Mutual before you insure.
